Migration Of Whales Due Soon

Whale watchers soon will be grabbing their binoculars and heading for Cabrillo National Monument.

The annual migration of the California gray whales is expected to gain momentum by Christmas, according to Ranger Hoyt Rath, in charge of the monument information desk.

Three of the huge mammals, some of which grow to a length of 60 feet, were sighted last week off the Municipal Fishing Pier.

The mass movement ordinarily reaches its peak about the middle of January as they leave the Arctic and swim by Point Loma enroute to the lagoons of the Baja California peninsula, where they breed and calve.

Rath said last year's herd was estimated to number between 8,000 and 9,000, but only about 1,500 of them were close enough to be spotted off the coast.

The whales head back to the Arctic early in February, but on their return trip swim farther off the coast and few of them are visible from land.

Students Will Tour Deep Quest

Sixteen Dana Junior High School seventh grade seminar students tomorrow will tour two of the world's most sophisticated submersibles, the Deep Quest and its mother ship, Trans Quest.

Accompanied by their seminar teacher, Mrs. Marion C. Ulrich, and their counselor, Earl George, the students will be guests of the Lockheed Ocean Laboratory at Harbor Island.

MINARD LECTURES

Glenn F. Minard, submarine engineer and pilot of the Deep Quest, will lecture on that vessel. Deep Quest has made 46 dives and reached the record-breaking depth of 8,310 feet.

The Dana delegation first will visit the Trans Quest and hear a lecture by Robert L. Eberhardt, senior research scientist assigned to the submarine. He also is research associate for the San Diego Museum of Natural History.

The students also will be shown slides of photographs taken at the bottom of various dives made by Deep Quest.

LAUNCHED IN 1965

Lockheed Corp. launched Deep Quest in 1965.

Taking the tour will be Mary Erickson Jill Fehlman, Antoinette Gerhardt, Gail Griswold, Caitlin Mitchell, Elise Streicher Martha Woodworth, Robert Coontz, John Ford.

Also David Frankville, Howard Haimsohn, Richard Hockstein, David Neustadt, John Petersen, Allan Sapp and Edward Shapiro.

Two Chorus Groups Join In Songfest

Songs by a combined chorus of 70 boys and girls, and a drama department presentation of Dickens' "Christmas Carol," will feature Dana Junior High School's public Christmas program Tuesday at 7:30 in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Nona Larson is the drama instructor and director and Mrs. Ann Wright will direct the chorus.

Appearing in the play will be Todd Stolp, James Stewart, Brian Saunders, Bruce King, John Stone, John Kerr, Marilyn Perona, Jeannie Marshall, John Gray, Fernanda Avila and Fred Wold.

'OUTSTANDING LIFEGUARD'

Owen Honored By Beach Town Council

Exceptional bravery and devotion to duty brought William W. Owen a memorable tribute Thursday night.

Selected as "outstanding lifeguard of the year," the 25-year-old La Jolla resident received the first annual Charles W. Hardy Memorial Award at a dinner held in Atlantis Restaurant.

More than 70 persons attended the event, sponsored by the Ocean Beach Town Council.

And among them, justifiably bursting with pride, were the lifeguard's parents, Navy Capt. and Mrs. W. D. Owen, of 155 G Ave., Coronado.

Dick Thorpe, council president, presented the memorial plaque to Owen. A permanent plaque, which will be on display at city lifeguard headquarters.

Ladley Given Vietnam Medal

Coast Guard Lieutenant Commander Arthur E. Ladley Jr., son of Arthur E. Ladley of 2234 Poinsettia St. and Mrs. Arthur E. Ladley of 2344 Soto St., was awarded the Vietnam Service Medal during ceremonies at the U.S. Coast Guard Station, Barber's Point, Oahu, Hawaii. He received the medal for faithful service in Vietnam for three consecutive months. The primary mission of the station is search and rescue in the Hawaiian and central Pacific area. LCmdr. Ladley entered the service in July, 1950, and graduated from the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., with a BS degree in English.

HE MEANS BUSINESS—As chairman of the beaches, zoning and property committee of the Ocean Beach Town Council, Al Vallin is urging the city to drain, or purify, several stagnant pools along the 4200 block on West Point Loma Boulevard. To illustrate his point, Vallin donned boots the other day and waded out into one of the pools to make a first-hand inspection. It convinced him that the pools constitute a health hazard and also pose a threat to the safety of children who walk by the area.

Beach Plunge Now Open

Mission Beach Plunge, a city Recreation Department operation billed as the largest indoor pool in the West, opened its doors for a nine-month season yesterday.

The plunge will be open on weekdays from 2:30-10 p.m., on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sundays from noon to 6 p.m.

Lockers, showers and suit rentals are available. Swimming lessons will be offered for the price of pool admission after Jan. 8. Call 224-2439 for swimming information and reservations.

Cabrillo School

Students Aid Needy In Tijuana

Thanks to the heart-warming Christmas spirit of PTA members at Cabrillo Elementary School, more than 320 towel kits containing food, clothing and toys were distributed to needy families in Tijuana Thursday.

The PTA ladies, under the leadership of Mrs. Edward Cramer, Tijuana drive chairman for the past 10 years, sewed the kits at workshops held in the school auditorium.

The bags were distributed to students who took them home, filled them with various articles and returned them to the school.

EXTRA ITEMS

This marked Cabrillo's contribution to the annual Project de Amigos. In addition to the kits, 300 extra items of clothing were donated to the Mexican families.

Aiding in the project were Mrs. Richard Anderson, PTA president, and C. R. Calhoun, school principal.

Project Amigos has financed construction of 15 buildings in Tijuana, according to Mrs. Cramer. These include a medical clinic, maternity hospital, thrift shop, mothers club, milk bar, sewing classrooms and youth club.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Also, the project has furnished scholarship assistance to numerous Mexican students.

"These people really need our help and are deeply appreciative," said Mrs. Cramer. "The response of Cabrillo children and their parents was more enthusiastic and generous than ever before. I wish to thank everyone for their cooperation in this vital project."

MUSICAL FOURSOME — These four youngsters are among students who will perform in the annual Christmas program for parents and friends at Sunset View Elementary School Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Upper grade guitar players are Sandra Adler, 11, (left), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Adler, 865 Cordova St., and Annie Laddon, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Laddon, 1068 Santa Barbara St. Members of the lower grade chorus are Robert Scott Davis, 10, (left), son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Davis, 4625 Granger St., and Mark Kinnison, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kinnison, 970 Tarento Dr. Mrs. Beatrice Andalafit and Mrs. Vera Holm direct the lower grade chorus. The upper grade chorus, directed by Miss Zelma Crider, will sing at the Downtown Rotary Club luncheon Thursday.

Rope Worth $1,000 Stolen

Burglars escaped with 1,200 feet of rope, valued at $1,000, after breaking into a rented garage at 4738 Longbranch Ave. Thursday, police reported.

C. A. Workman, of 3546 Addison St., owner of the garage, said the thieves also took a combination lock.

EXECUTIVE CONFERENCE—Steve Gruber, Beverly Boston (center) and Pamela Lindsay get together to discuss the fortunes of their respective business enterprises. They are Point Loma High School students who are gaining valuable training as corporation presidents in the Junior Achievement program. Steve and the coeds expect an upswing in business during the Christmas season.

IN JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT

Teenage Executives Learn By Experience

By CHRISTY GREGG

Sentinel Staff Writer

Some day, who knows.

Maybe one of 'em will wind up being president of General Motors. Or United States Steel. Or Consolidated Edison.

At any rate, varied operations of the business world are being absorbed by four Point Loma High School students who are serving as corporation presidents under the Junior Achievement program.

To be sure, they operate on a miniature basis. But they're acquiring vital training in production, sales, personnel relations, management, controlling and other phases of the corporate structure.

The students are Steve Gruber, 16; Beverly Boston, 17; Pamela Lindsay, 16, and James Dew, 17.

Each company is sponsored by a San Diego business firm which provides it with an advisor in sales, production and controlling.

Steve is president of Marvel Makers, a corporation which turns out a combination of a bread board and sewing kit. Gruber and his employees go door-to-door selling the item, which is priced at $2.49.

"The program is designed to acquaint students with business operations as conducted under a free enterprise system," explained Steve.

"Our company has sold 100 shares at $1 a share. We have invested $70 in material and have $30 in the bank. So far we have broken even. We made 55 combinations and sold 30."

Salesmen for each JA corporation are paid 20 cents an hour in salary and get a 10 percent commission for each item sold, he noted.

Steve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Grubber, of 368

San Antonio Ave. As president of Marvel Makers, he pays himself a salary of $2 a month.

On the other hand, Beverly Boston is comparatively affluent. She earns $4 a month as president of an outfit called the Sit Soft Comfort Cushion Co.

"Our cushions are made of poly-foam and are covered with plastic," she stated. "They can be used at stadiums, picnics, or anywhere you need a comfortable seat. We think they're a good bargain because they really serve their purpose."

Miss Boston's cushions sell for $1, and her company has produced 120 units.

"We wanted to capitalize for $100," she continued, "but decided we had enough when we got $75. We've invested it all. We'll have to clear about $500 before we'll show a profit."

Peninsula Resident Gets Inspection Post

Appointment of George W. Curtis, 47, a Peninsula resident, as director of the city Inspection Department was announced this week by City Manager Walter Hahn Jr.

Curtis will assume his new post next Thursday, succeeding Herbert Ringer, who announced his retirement in October.

Assistant director of the department since 1955, Curtis will receive $1,715 per month as director.

"We have considered numerous candidates for this position, both in city employment and elsewhere," said Hahn, "and we find that Mr. Curtis is most qualified for this responsible and sensitive assignment."

A native of Denver, Col., the new director earned his BS degree in Civil Engineering at the University of Colorado in 1942, and later he served as an officer in the Navy.

From 1946 to 1955, he was a senior structural design engineer with the C. F. Braun Co., builders of petrochemical pressure containers and industrial plants.

Peninsula Men Participated In 'Beef Trust'

Three Peninsulans participated in operation "Beef Trust" with Fleet Composite Squadron-3 off the coast of Southern California recently.

The men are Navy LCmdr. William R. Johnson, USN, son of Mrs. Louis Durand of 3035 Tennyson St.; Navy Lt. John S. Woodard, son of Mrs. William T. Woodard and husband of Mrs. Raquel S. Woodard, all of 1868 Willow St., and Seaman William C. Truchan, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Truchan of 4636 Narragansett St.

The last major First Fleet exercise of the year, the eight-day exercise involved 28 ships and 31 air squadrons, including four Canadian units.

Beverly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Boston, of 4411 Coronado Ave.

If you want to buy a product called a kissing bug, contact Pamela Lindsay, who is president of Kraft-Ki Corp.

Her company manufactures a miniature doll whose apparel includes a piece of misletoe, hence the name, kissing bug. It sells for $1.50.

Pamela is the daughter of Mrs. Patricia J. Lindsay, of 4841 Del Monte Ave.

James Dew is president of Flexi-Blocks, which manufactures foam rubber, toy building blocks. You can buy a bag of 'em for only $1.

In January each JA corporation will participate in a trade fair at Mission Valley Center.

In May, each company will be required to liquidate. And that's when they will declare a dividend—they hope.

Curtis is a California registered civil engineer. He is a member of the Structural Engineers Association of San Diego, American Society of Civil Engineers, International Conference of Building Officials, and two engineering fraternities, Chi Epsilon and Sigma Tau.

He also is a member of the University Christian Church and is a former president of the Point Loma Kiwanis Club.

Curtis and his wife, Margaret, reside at 3722 Del Mar Ave. They have four children, Howard, 21; James, 20; Janet, 11, and Carol, 9.

The students of Warren-Walker School, 4605 Point Loma Ave., will present a Christmas program Wednesday at 10 a.m.

As parents and visitors are arriving they will be entertained by harpists Lauren Davis and Janet Wallace. They will play Christmas music.

Michelle Engel, student body president, will open the program with a short explanation of the play and of the other features of the program.

Students of the fourth grade are presenting a Christmas skit.

The children in Pre-School and students of all other elementary grades are needed to unravel the mystery of "Santa's Lost Suit." Main characters in the play are John Ledford as Santa and Roberta Wellman as Mrs. Santa.

Other characters, representing the holidays of the year and friends of Santa, are played by Joen Bowman, Christopher Belote, Ted Carlblom, Lauren Davis, Darla DiStio, Michelle Engel, George Evans, Elizabeth Lontz, William Mathews, Terry Powers, Elizabeth Waddell, Robert Waddell, and Janet Wallace.

200th Plans Gigantic Birthday Party In Balboa Park

San Diego's Balboa Park, site of the 1915 and 1935 World Expositions, will be one of the entertainment centers of the San Diego 200th Anniversary Celebration in 1969, it has been announced.

Birthday Party in Balboa Park, a two-day highlight of the 200th Anniversary five-day opening ceremonies, will occupy practically every square inch of the Park.

"Bands, dances, exhibits, clowns, mariachis, parades, and a celebration atmosphere is the theme of our Birthday Party on Jan. 4 and 5," according to Mrs. William R. Boehm, chairman of the two-day event.

"The Birthday Party actually begins on Friday evening, Jan. 3, with a film festival pre-view of old-time movies and old-time stars," Mrs. Boehm said.

The film festival pre-view will feature Neil Morgan as Master of Ceremonies and Fred Finn will accompany the films on the piano.

The film festival will run throughout the two following days, in the James S. Copley auditorium of the Fine Arts Gallery.

Biggest single event of the weekend will be the Pied Piper Parade, beginning Saturday, Jan. 4, at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Bruce Hazard, chairman of the Parade Committee of the Birthday Party group, said, "the Pied Piper Parade will embrace all segments of the community, from bands, floats, and dignitaries, to highly unusual groups, such as unicycle riders."

"The public is invited to join in and march in the parade," Mrs. Hazard said, "and we hope everyone will join in a special division." Over 120 organizations were invited to be part of the 200th Anniversary parade, which starts at Sixth Avenue, down Laurel Street to the Plaza de Balboa.

Roscoe E. Hazard will be Grand Marshal of the parade, as head of the dignitary division which will include state, county, city and military officials, and special invited guests.

"A baby elephant from the San Diego Zoo will also march in the parade," Mrs. Hazard said, "in addition to many floats from organizations throughout San Diego County."

"Mother Goose will be part of the parade," Mrs. Hazard said, "plus an antique fire engine from Nelson's market."

Over 10 bands will march and more are being added to the roster every day, a spokesman of the 200th said.

After the parade, the ceremonial cutting of the Birthday Cake and the judging of the cake decorating contest will take place.

A giant Birthday Cake, 12 feet high and 20 feet across, with a walk-through area is being prepared for the weekend event.

"Edible birthday cakes will be arranged inside the giant cake so that citizens may have a piece of our Bicentennial Cake," Mrs. Boehm said.

The enormous 200th Birthday Cake will be located in the conference building. A cake decorating contest will also be held in this area.

Saturday at noon, a reception for official dignitaries will be held by the Hall of Science.

At 1 p.m., ground will be broken for the new Planetarium which will be constructed during the 200th, adjacent to the Hall of Science.

Also at 1 p.m., the concentrated afternoon programming will begin, making use of many areas with a tremendous variety of entertainment.

"Some of the groups who will play in the park on Saturday and Sunday afternoon include the Marine Corps Band, the Singing Ambassadors, the Lakota Indian Dancers, the San Diego Youth Symphony and San Diego Civic Youth Ballet, and the play 'Infanta' by the San Diego Junior Theatre," Mrs. Boehm said.

The Sweet Adelines Chorus, U. S. Army WAC Combo, the Bell Choralists, Mt. Miguel High School Band, Cabrillo Folk Dancers, Portuguese-American dancers, Naval Training Center band, Gwen Gordon Singers, National Smooth Dancers, and the Marine Flag Pageant are included.

The Rancho Bernardo Projects will present a special program, plus the 5th Marine Drum and Bugle Corps, Las Cuadrillas Alegres, the Explorer Post Band, square dancers, Highland Pipers and dancers, Cygany Dancers, San Diego Folk Dancers, and a Barbershop Chorus.

Sites for performances on both days include the Organ Pavilion, the Fine Arts Gallery steps, the Recital Hall, House of Hospitality Ballroom, Fine Arts Auditorium, Balboa Park Bowl, the Spanish Village, and the Balboa Park Club.

"Balboa Bowl and practically every corner of the park will be used for some kind of entertainment," Mrs. Boehm said, "because we have cooperation from every resident of Balboa Park."

Daily activities include strolling mariachis, strolling clowns, and wandering quartets of singers to serenade.

Special programming for the Spanish Village is the "Mile of Art" exhibit, which will display painting of local artists during the Birthday Party.

The PhotoArts Building will house an exhibit of San Diego County photographs, and the Natural History Museum will have an old mining camp.

The Museum of Man will feature a Mexican Market as part of their participation in the 200th Birthday Party. "We will have a reception room available for alumni of the 1915 and 1935 expositions," Mrs. Boehm said. "We have tried to include everybody in this spectacular event. The key theme is fun and entertainment coupled with exploration of our beautiful park."

Another feature of the weekend will be a special exhibit of priceless antiques from private collections displayed in the House of Pacific Relations.

"Hundreds of citizens and every group with the Park have worked extremely hard in arranging a giant salute to San Diego's 200th Anniversary," said Mrs. Boehm, "and we could not have managed without total cooperation."

"The Birthday Party is something everyone can participate in, and we hope the entire county plus all our visitors will be there," she said.

FOR 200TH ANNIVERSARY

'Warm Lights Of Welcome' Will Keep City Aglow In '69

San Diego county will honor the 200th Anniversary of San Diego and California with a spectacular light show, it has been announced by the bicentennial group.

The Warm Lights of Welcome, a program to decorate all of San Diego county with lights, will begin this month, sponsored by county Kiwanis Clubs.

"Over 50 district chapters of Kiwanis Clubs have embraced this ambitious program as their outstanding contribution to the 200th," according to Charles E. Cordell, president of the 200th.

"Warm Lights of Welcome is an extension of the Christmas lighting program," Cordell said. "During the 200th we are asking residents and businesses to replace red, green, and blue lights with amber and white to make the entire county glow."

Gil Johnson, official 200th representative of the San Diego Kiwanis Clubs, said "the Warm Lights project is a motivation program of the Kiwanis to get enthusiasms going for the 200th."

"Imagine the impact of the entire county decorated with lights every night during the 200th," Johnson said. "The program will develop a community spirit that will enhance the entire celebration."

Beautification of San Diego county for 1969 is one of the primary responsibilities of the San Diego 200th Anniversary, Inc.

With thousands of visitors expected throughout the year, the Warm Lights project is intended to display the celebration atmosphere that will exist for the bicentennial.

"The Warm Lights of Welcome campaign is an effective way in which citizens can participate in the 200th," Johnson said. "Anyone who has Christmas lights will become part of our yearlong birthday party just by keeping their lights glowing during 1969."

Robert Arnheim, executive vice-president of the 200th and executive director of the San Diego Downtown Association said "downtown buildings will participate in the Warm Lights project by converting their Christmas decorations to 200th decorations at the start of the celebration in January."

"The Downtown Association has been successful in decorating the downtown area for Christmas," Arnheim said, "and we are all enthusiastic about this program for the 200th."

The Navy and Marines are also participating in the project to keep San Diego county lighted for the entire year, a spokesman for the 200th announced.

"Navy ships in the harbor will be decorated with lights all year, and M.C.R.D. will also participate in the program," Cordell said.

During their countywide campaign for the Warm Lights, the Kiwanis are urging citizens to purchase amber and white bulbs. Merchants have notified the 200th that extra lights will be available for the program.

Kiwanis Clubs and the 200th will provide prizes and awards for the best 200th decorations, including certificates and trophies.

Music and Drama A Seat In The Dark

By DAVID E. GREGSON

"HAIR" AND "TOM PAINE"—I attended a preview performance of "Hair" recently at a new Hollywood theater especially overhauled for the grand event. This theater, The Aquarius, used to be the scene of "Queen For A Day." "Hair" promoters would have America think their efforts are radically different from the sentimental excesses of "Queen For A Day," but, believe me, the similarities between the two shows are much more striking than the differences.

Of course, one is not supposed to review a preview performance of anything. But I did not go as a critic, I bought the cheap seats at $5.98 and joined nearly 1,500 other spectators in the thrilling experience of watching the death spasms of American theater in the name of revolution and art. Now you can go and pay $8.95 (low) for the same privilege. Or you can go to see "Tom Paine" for much less at Theater Five in Pacific Beach where the same type of theater effort as "Hair" is done with 100 percent more imagination and style.

"Tom Paine" is an event. "Hair" is a commercial travesty, a fraud, the greatest undercurrent of deodorant sales pitch in history and a cynical joke.

"Hair" is a rewrite of "South Pacific" with a nude scene and hippies thrown in to fool the audience into thinking they are seeing something new. The audience is "pre-sold" by good reviews from critics who are dying along with the American theater. If the goons that go to see this ridiculous show would just open their ears they would hear the corniest, most gushy song lyrics ever written. "The Sound of Music" has nothing more maudlin. "Hair" has an alleged "rock" score, but it is the same old stuff with different instruments.

New Revolution What we have here is a case in which the new "Revolution" is taking on many qualities of the "Establishment" and pretending not to notice. Individualism and original, meaningful thought are now lost to revolutionaries and squares alike.

As for the choreography, it is pure Busby Berkeley, destined to become the high camp of another era. The acting and diction are impossible. The audience participation has the effect of alienating rather than involving. I find most actors do not know what to do when I participate and talk back to them as they step on my toes and run around my aisle. This convinces me that they only look as if they are "confronting" me. They are actually old fashioned actors in spite of everything.

"Tom Paine" is another "audience participation" show, or at least the audience is "confronted" almost before it gets in the front door of the auditorium. However, I feel strongly that Bob Glau-dini's production at Theater Five here in Pacific Beach is the only successful show of this type I have ever seen or am likely to see. It has a lot to do with Glau-dini's stunning imagination in things visual and auditory and a lot also with the inadequate tiny theater which actually lends to the impact of the play.

The drama, by Paul Foster, is arduous-type imitation of "Marat-Sade" and includes the same madhouse atmosphere and a revolutionary theme. Unlike "Hair," however, "Tom Paine" is not a disguised version of "Sound of Music." It is a true revolutionary drama with an imprint of sincerity.

What impressed me the most about "Paine" was Glau-dini, not Foster. This is his greatest achievement, partially because the intellectual content of the play is so vague. I have found that Glau-dini tends to obscure the content of playwrights such as Beckett and Genet with uncalled for theatricality. He would not agree. Yet, theatricality is Glau-dini's instinct and it works brilliantly in "Paine." One could never accuse him of dullness. And, in spite of the unbelievable violence on stage in "Paine," and in spite of some nudity, some vomiting and an appalling garbage-eating scene, this is Glau-dini's least vulgar production in Theater Five history.

It is also the best lighted show to appear in San Diego. The technical work of sets and costumes deserves praise, though the clothes are all filthy and the sets deliberately awful looking. The use of a catwalk over the audience is particularly effective.

Reject Experience I am sorry to see the aims of the new revolution turn into a fight to walk around naked and to have sex all day long. In rebelling against the establishment, the revolutionaries have also rejected experience and reason for instinct and sensation. This results in a totally brainless attitude towards the world an attitude which has kept hippies from creating much that is worthwhile artistically (unlike the Romantic poets or the beatniks for instance). A lot of "rock" is created by the establishment at Columbia Records.

When I hear person after person on KPFF-FM call "Hair" an "important theatrical event" which "changes the direction of American theater" I can hardly believe my ears. It is not new at all. Go see it for "content," not for its surface and you will have to agree with me. Some of today's "revolutionaries" are so devoted to sensual experience they cannot see intellectual content underneath the surface of art, or, if they do see it, they pretend to understand and are usually dead wrong about it. This spells ultimate death for their minds and for the arts. "Hair" proves it. "Paine," on the other hand, dramatizes the dichotomy between thought and sensation. It is superbly done.

DECADENT Contentment is supposed to be a virtue, but it is certain death to enterprise.

HUSTLE Don't judge a man's future by his past—experience may have taught him a lesson.

The right of way gives no one the right to be careless.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH
By
DOCTOR JOHN J. FLYNN
Doctor of Chiropractic

Q—I was involved in a car accident six months ago. Everything seemed all right at the time but, I drove downtown last week and I couldn't get out of the car. I had to be helped. The doctor taped up my back and I've been in bed ever since. The pain is terrible. I've been told that you can help. Can you?

A—It sounds like your sacroiliac has slipped. It's quite possible that this is a delayed reaction from your accident. This is quite common. Your spine probably suffered an acute injury that resulted in a structural defect. All that was needed was an unguarded move, or a sudden twisting to cause the damaged vertebra to slip out of alignment on your spinal column. This would cause an instant disability and severe pain. A Chiropractic adjustment can replace this misaligned vertebra and restore it to its proper place on your spinal column. Remember, your spine is an elaborate structure made up of 26 articulated bones. It's a marvel of engineering and, like most structures, needs periodic maintenance to keep it functioning properly.

Q—How can I tell if my spine is out of alignment without going to a doctor?

A—An x-ray is really needed to pinpoint minor spinal misalignments that cause major health problems. But, a good at-home test that can give you an indication of spinal problems is to check yourself while stripped in front of a mirror. Make sure that your shoulders and hips are in a straight line—one is not lower than the other or protruding forward. Look for a curvature in the neck. Check your head and note if it tilts to one side or the other. Lay flat on your back with your heels together and have someone note if one leg is shorter than the other. Try strenuous exercise for several minutes and note any difficulties that result. But, the best way to maintain your spinal column and your good health, is to have regular Chiropractic checkups at your Doctor's office.

Doctor Flynn welcomes your letters on health problems. Mail your questions to his office at 6943 Linda Vista Rd. or telephone for an appointment to discuss your problem directly with him. Dr. Flynn is a member of the Associated Chiropractors of California, a non-profit organization whose members have agreed to provide x-rays, examinations and office consultations without obligation to anyone that requests these services in order to determine if they can be helped back to health through Chiropractic. Who Puts Out The Fire?

It is generally agreed that one of the causes of violence at San Francisco State originated with the relaxation in entrance requirements for a relatively few underprivileged students.

Having given a little, however, it was not long before the militants were demanding more, and now one of the conditions for peace is that there be no limits to the admission of students who do not qualify in academic standards.

Obviously, such a policy would soon make higher education a farce, and would be self-defeating, even for the underprivileged.

With this in mind, there has been local criticism of the recently inaugurated policy at UCSD of lowering entrance requirements for a limited number of students from the underprivileged areas.

Both at San Francisco and here there are logical and humane reasons for the policy.

It is plain to see that the needs of the ghetto are not being met by present methods in elementary and secondary education in our public schools. If there can be any doubt, all one has to do is reflect upon the results.

As a partial offset, Chancellor McGill, as well as other administrators around the state, sought to offer a second chance to some of the more promising, but deprived students.

Properly administered, the policy makes sense. Many promising youths, who otherwise might be lost, can develop under such a system and render back their talents to a society sorely in need of their contributions.

But to be successful, the policy needs firm administration as well as loyal support from the faculty — and these ingredients were lacking in San Francisco.

Where does academic freedom fit into all this college turmoil?

For many, many years this freedom has been a cherished right of college instructors. And well it should be, for who is more fitted to chart the course of an education than one professionally trained?

You don't challenge a pilot when you set off in the blue yonder nor do you question the surgeon's operation as the anesthetic takes you under.

With freedoms, however, come responsibilities, and on many campuses these days too many professors have forgotten that there are two sides to this coin.

Newspapermen, as well, cherish their freedom of the press, yet they have learned that when they grow indifferent there is always the laws of libel to draw them up sharp.

Men in commerce and industry value the free market, but it has a way of biting back when the needs of the public are disregarded.

The same laws are about to catch up with Academia, but only because those it favors most appear to be so disinterested in protecting it well.

As a result, public reaction threatens to lay it low, not only in California but also throughout the nation.

The taxpayer, the legislator, and especially the average family which struggles hard to put sons and daughters through college have been patient with the schools of higher education.

They have not approved always some of the philosophies of college educators, but because most of the professors were dedicated and conscientious, the excesses of the few were overlooked. Education in America, for the most part, has been sacrosanct.

But now, with growing numbers of instructors condoning the use of destructive drugs and some advocating violent upheaval and even treason, the privilege of academic freedom is becoming as attractive as a forest fire.

The public has grown weary; nay, angry! Excess repression is threatened, and this would be unfortunate.

Yet the public cannot be blamed.

Instead, the responsibility rests at the desks of those who cherish academic freedom most and who benefit from it greatest, but raise not a hand to protect it.

The majority of Americans are of a mind to stop this foolishness that allows a few college professors to encourage and even incite students to destroy property their hard-earned tax dollars have created while a minor number prevent the majority from getting an education so dearly paid for.

They do, however, prefer to let the administrators and the faculty do the job — if they are able to measure up to the responsibilities imposed upon them.

True, it's difficult for many men of conscience to draw a line between reform and revolution; between liberty and licentiousness.

But who can best make the distinctions if it not be a man of learning? And of what value is learning without responsibility and courage?

How, most Americans want to know, can the majority of solid, trustworthy professors tolerate characters like Marcuse and his ilk, who threaten the very foundations of their hard-earned professional standing?

If Marcuse, for instance, were to run from house to house with a lighted kerosene torch setting each professor's home on fire, how long would it be before the victims would have him arrested for arson?

Why then, the public wants to know, do these loyal members of the academic senate quietly allow the same kind of men to destroy a right much dearer than a roof over their heads?

Merchants, lawyers, doctors, yes, even newspapermen, quietly get together to control or alienate those in their professions who won't adhere to certain standards.

They have learned that if they don't regulate their own house, the legislators or the public soon will, and their cherished freedoms will be limited or lost.

Why, then, can't those who have dedicated their lives to educating others be as bright as their former students?

"And He Whistled, and Shouted, and Called Them by Name:
Now, Rogers! Now, Romney! Now, Mel Laird and Mitchell!
On, Hardin! On, Volpe! On Bob Finch and Hickel..."

His Qualifications Were High

By DAVID BRAATEN

WASHINGTON — Mark Rudd, the Napoleon of Columbia University's student sit-in legions last Spring announced recently that he would accept a demotion and permit himself to be drafted into the Army as a private soldier.

His reason for this act of apparent heresy, he stated, was that he would be able to organize the Army along revolutionary lines of freedom, democracy and peace. He would be boring from within, a technique considered effective by some revolutionaries and many bores.

As it turned out, young Rudd was found physically unfit for Army service at this time.

The suspicious-minded might think the Defense Department had engineered Rudd's deferment out of fear of the young revolutionists' challenge to Army authority. After all, didn't Rudd achieve the resignation of Columbia's president, cancellation of plans for a gymnasium and an agonizing reappraisal of administration-faculty-student relations?

But this is ridiculous. After all, the Pentagon is not square. It has ways of dealing with the likes of Master Rudd.

An interesting recent case involved another campus radical, Vladimir Ilyich Babbitt, who succumbed to the draft with the same brave intention expressed by Rudd. Like so many of the Bold New Left, young Babbitt was unable to keep even his most frivolous thoughts to himself. He held a news conference to proclaim his planned overthrow of the Army from the inside.

Army Was Ready

So, naturally, the Army was ready.

From the moment he stepped off the day coach into the stupefying heat of Camp Chigger, Ga., Babbitt was kept under constant surveillance by relays of undercover operatives, disguised as non-commissioned officers, chaplain's assistants and fellow draftees. Every move Babbitt made was duly reported to the commanding general.

It should be added that Babbitt himself was not ill prepared for his revolutionary role. He had read an outline of "Ten Days That Shook the World" during his senior year in college. He had seen "Potemkin" six times and "Dr. Zhivago" twice. If anyone tried serving Pvt. Babbitt's basic training platoon maggoty meat, or haranguing them from an ice-crusted rain barrel, he'd know what to do.

No such situation arose, however, and Babbitt had to make do with the admittedly inadequate opportunities that came his way.

The first occasion was when, through carelessness or bribery, Babbitt was assigned to kitchen police out of turn. His attempts to incite a demonstration understandably failed to strike sparks among his fellow trainees.

Extra KP Duty

They surmised correctly that Babbitt's complaining would only net him additional KP, thus lightening the collective burden. Babbitt's persistence in this fiasco, despite its obvious hopelessness, earned him the following comment in his dossier: "Obstinate to the point of being unreasonable."

On the rifle range, Babbitt refused to aim at the targets and tried to exhort his comrades to waste their ammunition in protest. Since those who qualified were rewarded with a pass to town and those who failed had to pull targets in the pits, Babbitt's buddies reasonably declined to follow his lead. In addition to caluses from the target ropes, Babbitt gained another entry in his file: "Inept with small arms."

On guard duty, Babbitt deliberately slept through his shift, hoping for a court-martial at which he could denounce the shortcoming of the military mind. Instead, he was assigned to the garbage pickup detail and accorded the notation in his file: "Lazy, unsuited to night work."

At the orientation lectures, Babbitt asked so many questions that the instructor put him in charge. Babbitt immediately changed the format, permitting no questions and instituting strict discipline in place of the easygoing atmosphere that had previously made the lectures a favorite.

There was no evidence that the men paid any attention to what Babbitt said in his lectures, but he did earn a rating of "Dictatorial" in his now-bulging file.

During the inspirational movies showing combat in Vietnam, Babbitt wept at the scenes of destruction. "Emotional; immature," read the entry in his dossier.

The final blow came on maneuvers, when Babbitt, determined to bollix things up, engineered a takeover of his own battalion's headquarters, ousting the staff and bringing about a crushing defeat for the friendly forces. The umpires, while admiring Babbitt's tactical know-how, rated him "In need of guidance."

Faced with a dossier like Babbitt's — "obstinate, unreasonable, inept, lazy, dictatorial, immature, in need of guidance" — the commanding general had no choice.

"Send this boy to Officer Candidate School," he ordered.

Listen, But Crack Down

By JAMES KILPATRICK

NEW YORK, N.Y. — What is the first thing to be done with America's disenchanted and rebellious student leaders? It is to listen to them.

That was the sound counsel extended last week by Margaret Mead, the salty old anthropologist, and J. Irwin Miller, former president of the World Council of Churches. They turned up before a meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers, on a panel discussion of crises in American life. They both made the same vital point: The war babies of 1942-1948, now the young people of 20 to 26, comprise a generation vastly different from the generation of their parents. The differences have to be comprehended.

They are members of the first generation that will have to face, throughout their lives, the possibility of mankind's literally destroying itself. They are the first generation of the satellite, which carries such awesome capabilities for good and evil. They grow into adulthood in a world that is figuratively much smaller than their parents' world — a world of mixed perils and opportunities unlike those we knew in the Twenties and Thirties.

Add to these elements the frustration of the black American; the sexual emancipation encouraged not only by "the Pill" but also by woman's changing status; the ethical problems presented by such prospects as compulsory population control and organ transplants — all of it adds up to a crushing weight upon the children of '42-'48. In their disenchantment with established institutions, which have produced the problems but not resolved them, no wonder this dissident generation cries out to be listened to!

So let us listen — earnestly, thoughtfully, and not defensively. Let us listen to their criticisms of higher education, of capitalism, of the policies of government at home and abroad. We of the middle and older generations have no monopoly on wisdom; we can learn.

But there is another side to the proposition. If the middle and older generations are to cease their indifference and open their ears, the young militants must abandon their arrogance and open their ears as well.

Before this crisis of misunderstanding can be resolved — before any constructive effort can be made toward bridging the generation gap — order will have to be restored. This is the first condition.

In the course of a single 24-hour period here in New York last week, students imprisoned the dean of Fordham in his office by erecting a barricade of desks; down at New York University, other young anarchists forcibly prevented lectures by South Vietnam's Nguyen Huu Chi and The New York Times's James Reston. Meanwhile, black high school students were rioting in the suburbs. Across the continent, the agony of San Francisco State College continued.

Just as it is a time for listening, so also is it time for cracking down. For too long, college administrators and university trustees have failed in their first duty, which is to maintain an atmosphere in which reasoned debate may be exchanged. They have been so overawed by fears of faculty resignations, or by misunderstood notions of academic freedom, that they have abdicated responsibility.

This has to stop. If restoring order means mass expulsions and mass firings, so be it. If it means recourse to police or to troops, so be it. The anarchical violence of a few overblown revolutionaries simply cannot be permitted to prevent the listening and learning process. Put the fomenters of disorder in jail; dismiss the professors who conspire with them to destroy discipline; and let us get on with the task.

Well, it is said, it is not so easy. Tenure . . . accreditation . . . the desire for accommodation . . . The counsels of appeasement are everywhere. Granted that due process must be observed; granted that patience is a virtue. The hard truth is that the country's patience with revolutionaries is running out. Either order is restored, or a real storm breaks.

Harris Poll

Disconnected Groups

By LOUIS HARRIS

At a time of unprecedented material affluence in this country, 28% of adult Americans—over 33 million people—feel largely alienated from the mainstream of society.

The groups that feel most disconnected from the rest of the country are the poor, the old, the blacks and people who never went beyond the eighth grade. Those who voted for George Wallace for President in November also express a high sense of isolation from the American power structure.

Here are some typical disparities that exist in American attitudes today:

—While 19% of the people who have finished college feel that "the people running the country don't really care what happens to people such as myself," 52% of whites with only a grade-school education, 58% of the Wallace voters and 62% of Negroes earning under $3,000 yearly feel that way.

—Although 35% of the people who make $10,000 a year or more say they feel that "what I think doesn't count very much," the proportion rises to 53% among backers of Wallace as well as among whites with little education and to 58% among blacks earning under $3,000.

—While 14% of the college-educated people feel that "few people understand how it is to live like I have," 56% of blacks under 30 and 40% of whites earning under $3,000 feel this way.

—Compared with 6% of the group making $10,000 or over who feel "left out of things going on around us," 52% of low-income blacks express that view.

As against the not inconsiderable discontent felt by the most privileged members of society—people who have achieved a college degree—disaffection is dramatic among those "passed by" in one way or another. It is:

—Almost four times as great among Negroes earning under $3,000 a year.

—Over three times as great among whites who never got to high school.

—Over twice as high among white people 65 or over, among whites earning $3,000 or less a year, among those who favored Wallace for President.

Further analysis of each of the main disaffected groups reveals sharp differences in their perceptions of the root causes of alienation. For example, young blacks tend to agree with the statements that "other people get the lucky breaks" and "the rich get richer and the poor get poorer."

"I want to read to you a number of things some people have told us that they have felt. From time to time, do you tend to feel (read list):

	Degree of Alienation	Total Public	Wallace Voter	Negro
	Pct	Pct	Pct	Pct
The rich get richer and the poor get poorer.	54	61	61
What I think doesn't count very much.	42	53	44
People running the country don't really care what happens to people like me.	36	58	44
Few people really understand how it is to live like I live.	23	26	53
Important things that happen don't affect my life.	21	22	27
Other people get the lucky breaks.	19	23	40
I don't have as good a chance to get ahead as most other people.	15	18	41
I feel left out of things going on around me.	12	14	34

In adult America, blacks are now an estimated 12% of the population, whites over 65 are 17%, whites earning under $3,000 a year are 10%, whites with no more than a grade-school education are 17%, and the Wallace supporters came to just over 13% in 1968's election. Taken together and eliminating overlap, these groups come close to 50% of the adult population.

During the Johnson Administration an antipoverty program was created to concentrate on the economic and social problems of that 16% of the population in the $3,000 and less yearly income group. When measured by a sense of alienation from the mainstream of society, the proportion which does not feel America cares about them comes to a much higher 28%, symptomatic perhaps that many of this country's future problems are going to emerge as much from the psychological as the economic, despite the obvious connection between the two.

Windshield Wipers Show—How Gauche!

By DON MACLEAN

WASHINGTON — The other day we were grumbling about Congress bedeviling the automobile business and I ran out of space before I had a chance to tell you about my new car. (If you like, in retaliation, you can write and tell me about YOUR new car.)

When I bought my 1964 model, new, I thought it was the most marvelous machine in the world. Before that I had a '61, which I also thought was magnificent. And a '58, etc., etc. But each time I get a new car, the same brand, the company dazes me with improvements.

Surely, though, this must be the end. They can go no further than this. Anything more and you could fly it to the moon. Even my chubbiness neighbor is envious. We've had a one-up duel for years. At the moment I'm ahead, but the contest was close. We had our vehicles side by side in the driveway and were comparing them.

He hit me with an AM-FM Stereo, with dual speakers. I came back with AM-FM-Stereo AND a tape deck. He pointed out that his headlights retract, and that mine don't.

"Do you have a load-level-er?" he asked. I told him I didn't even know what a load-leveler was, so how could I know if I had one? "Well," he said, "if you have something heavy in your trunk, this shifts the springs so the load rides level. Man, I'd hate to drive around without my load level."

Frankly I searched my list of extras. Ah, I had a load-leveler and didn't even know it. We both had power everything, white walls and air conditioning. I asked him if he had "temperature control," with which you can set the temperature you want to maintain and the heater/air conditioner works to keep it there. He did, drat!

We both had "cruise control," with which you can tool along at a steady speed without bothering to touch the gas pedal. We were tied with electric windows, but I edged ahead with a rear-window defroster. We both had four-way, electric seats and adjustable, tilt steering wheels. I had one more ash tray and lighter than he did.

We both had automatic trunk locks, which can be operated from within the car, and automatic headlight dimmers, plus a delay-switch for the headlights. But I finally won the game with my hidden windshield-wipers. My windshield-wipers, when not in use, disappear under the hood. His remain out there for everyone to see. How gauche!

Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—Probably at no time in this century will there be such an exodus of those who form and execute American foreign policy as will take place on January 20. Age plus politics will see all the veteran diplomats of the United States retiring, together with the entire "seventh floor" of the State Department. The seventh floor is occupied by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, together with all his and policy makers.

While the exodus

of political appoint-

ees was expected,

such key career

diplomats as Charles

Bohlen, Deputy

Under Secretary of

State; and Llewellyn

Jack Anderson

Thompson, Ambassador to the Soviet Union, and David K. E. Bruce, Ambassador to London, are also leaving. They have served under both Republican and Democratic Presidents.

Averell Harriman, chief negotiator in Paris and former Ambassador in Moscow, London and Paris, will also depart, together with Chester Bowles, Ambassador to India, who has served as governor of Connecticut, a Democratic member of Congress and Under Secretary of State.

It was a foregone conclusion that Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law of John F. Kennedy, should resign as Ambassador to France, Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican running mate of Nixon's in 1960, has also asked to be relieved as Ambassador to West Germany, though he is available for other assignments, probably as U.S. peace negotiator in Paris.

Robert Wagner, the former mayor of New York and a staunch Democrat, is of course slated to leave as American Ambassador to Spain. In addition, Carter Burgess, who served in the Defense Department under Eisenhower, is leaving as Ambassador to Argentina.

H. Gardner Ackley is departing as Ambassador to Rome; John Hayes as Ambassador to Switzerland; William Heath, the President's old Texas friend, as ambassador to Sweden; Fulton Freeman as Ambassador to Mexico, and George McGhee, a career diplomat and former envoy to Germany, is retiring as Ambassador at Large.

It also happens most of the Assistant Secretaries in charge of regional areas of the world will be resigning, most of them career diplomats. They include John Leddy for European affairs, Covey Oliver for Latin America, and William Bundy for the Far East, despite the fact that his family are Republicans. Luke Battle has recently retired as Assistant Secretary for the Near East while Edward Ray is retiring as Assistant Secretary for Cultural Affairs.

William Gaud is retiring as administrator of AID; Anthony Solomon as assistant secretary for economic affairs; while Leonard Marks has already retired as director of USA.

The danger is that such a large shift both of policy makers and career diplomats at one time could lead to disruption of foreign policy during a period when the international problems of the United States are delicately balanced, especially in Southeast Asia and the Near East.

(Note — First diplomat whose resignation will be accepted by Nixon will be William Costello, Ambassador to Trinidad and Tobago, author of the very critical book, "The Facts About Nixon.")

Promoting Black Capitalism
In the last campaign Richard Nixon emphasized the need of bringing "black capitalism" into our free enterprise system. One man who is already doing it is Howard Samuels, the New York business executive who now heads the Small Business Administration.

Samuels has initiated "Project Own," aimed at establishing Negro-owned businesses in ghettos throughout the nation, from Harlem to Watts. It is "the biggest dose of hope ever administered to black business ownership," says Negro writer William Raspberry of the Washington Post.

Though Samuels has been on the job only four months, he has already shown phenomenal results in convincing private bankers that financing Negro enterprises is good business.

"This is not a giveaway program," he says. "The SBA makes no loans. It only guarantees loans made by banks and small business investment companies, which use their own screening facilities."

There is nothing new about it except that many private financiers are realizing for the first time that a businessman can be an acceptable risk regardless of his color.

"All we are doing really is helping black people to help themselves — and their communities."

Samuels' goal is to establish new enterprises in the ghetto at the rate of 10,000 a year. He's already showing an annual rate of 5,000 though he's only started. The most mobile man in Washington, he sometimes delivers as many as four speeches a day in cities from coast to coast.

He has visited 23 cities since he took office on Aug. 1, 1968, talking to bankers, businessmen and ghetto leaders, sometimes a mixture of all three. White businessmen volunteer courses in management training, also individual help and advice to Negro merchants in the ghetto.

"We've got to start treating the inner city like we helped underprivileged and war ravaged countries after World War II," says Samuels. "It isn't just a matter of dollar financing, vital as this is. The struggling store owner in the ghetto usually lacks management experience. We must provide the know-how through experts."

"But the most important thing of all is community pride. You can't succeed in business without pride in your environment, and conversely you can't engender pride in the ghetto without successful businesses of its own. Both are interdependent."

Samuels, who is 49, ran for lieutenant governor of New York against the Rockefeller ticket and lost. In view of his political background, he is almost certain to be removed by Nixon, despite Nixon's campaign promise to encourage "black capitalism."

Friend Worried
Probably the most important and immediate problem Richard Nixon will face after Jan. 20 will be the issue which he talked a great deal about during the campaign—crime in the streets; and with it, race relations.

The problem has become more difficult because more than eighty per cent of the Negro vote went against Nixon, and the first Negro to be elected to the Senate in 100 years, Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., has now declined to serve in his Cabinet.

Brooke's declination was based largely on the fact that he did not want to surrender a position of power and prestige in the United States Senate. However, events preceding Brooke's veto of a Cabinet position illustrate the general skepticism of Negro moderates regarding the policies of the new President.

Brooke himself was personally alarmed when, last October, Nixon delivered a speech in North Carolina stating that, while he would back the Supreme Court's 1954 desegregation decision, he would leave the methods of enforcement up to local communities. Federal funds, he indicated, would not be used as a weapon to enforce integration.

This is exactly what Southern communities have argued for and what Negro leaders have argued against. Negroes claim that local white opposition to desegregation has held back anything but token integration in large parts of the South. They point out that 14 years have passed since the Supreme Court's historic decision and there is still no real desegregation in the South.

Sen. Brooke was in Boston at the time Nixon delivered his North Carolina speech, but he immediately sought an interview with the candidate and conveyed the view of Negro leaders.

Nixon replied that he had been misquoted.

Sen. Brooke did not question this, and remained loyal to the Republican candidate throughout the campaign. However, he was the only prominent Negro who did. Whitney Young, head of the Urban League, even remarked that any Negro who didn't know which candidate to vote for "deserved slavery." Most of them did. The Negro vote went 89 per cent to Humphrey.

Brooke Wavers

Despite his official loyalty, however, Sen. Brooke has confided to close friends that he has been worried about Nixon's position on integration, and the very important part which Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., the leading Senate segregationist, is slated to play in picking Supreme Court justices and federal judges for the South.

This has now been punctuated by the appointment of Sen. Thurmond's assistant, Harry Dent, to serve on the new White House staff. Furthermore, Nixon's statement to Sen. Brooke that he was misquoted in North Carolina does not seem to hold water. For Nixon made almost the same pledge to Southern delegates in Miami Beach at the GOP convention.

This meeting to seek Southern support was behind closed doors. However, the Miami Herald had a tape recorder inside the room and published a verbatim text of what Nixon said. His most important promise to the Southern delegates was exactly what Negroes, including Senator Brooke, object to most—namely, an attack on the federal courts for their enforcement of school desegregation.

Here is what Nixon said: "I think it's the job of the courts to interpret the law and not to make the law. . . . I don't think there is any court in this country, any judge in this country, either local or on the Supreme Court that is qualified to be a local school district and to make the decision as your local school board."

"That is why," Nixon continued, "instead of talking about billions more for federal jobs and federal housing, federal laws . . . I am talking about building bridges to human dignity . . . rather than to try to satisfy some professional civil rights group or something like that, that we will bus the child from one side of the county over to the other."

Nixon also spoke at the hush-hush Southern delegates meeting on the question of open housing.

"Open housing," he said, ". . . my position is the same as Congressman Jerry Ford's . . . it ought to be handled at the state level rather than the federal level."

It was Rep. Jerry Ford, Republican House Leader, who blocked the open housing bill all last spring at a time when President Johnson and Democratic leaders were trying to pry the bill out of the House Rules Committee where Chairman William Colmer, the Mississippi Dixiecrat, had it firmly stymied.

There are some of the reasons why the one Negro in the U.S. Senate, even though a Republican, decided to turn down the very flattering offer of a post in the Nixon Cabinet.

What's My Line?

John Daly, debonair former master of ceremonies for "What's My Line?" is angling to be head of the U.S. Information Agency under Nixon. He's been pulling wires with the GOP hierarchy in New York.

Daly recently resigned in a huff as head of the Voice of America, which is part of USA. Now he wants to be its top boss.

When Leonard Marks hired Daly after he lost his "What's My Line?" job with CBS, Sen. Karl Mundt, author of the Information Act, raised no objections. But after Daly resigned in a huff, Mundt did comment.

"I like you fellows and didn't want to interfere with what you were doing," Mundt told Director Marks. "But I could have told you that glamor doesn't mean ability."

Marine Corps, Chargers Join In Collecting Toys

Marine Corps Reservists and San Diego Chargers have joined forces again this year to help collect Christmas toys for thousands of less-fortunate children.

Members of the 4th Tank Battalion will be stationed at entrances to San Diego Stadium to collect new or usable toys from fans attending today's Charger-Oakland Raider American Football League game.

Toys also were collected at last Sunday's game between the Chargers and Kansas City Chiefs. It is the fourth straight year that the Chargers have aided the drive.

Since its inception in 1947, the Marine Reserve Toys for Tots program has provided Christmas joy for hundreds of thousands of children throughout the nation. The drive has been sponsored for 19 years in San Diego County by the 4th Tank Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. Frederick M. Bates, USMCR.

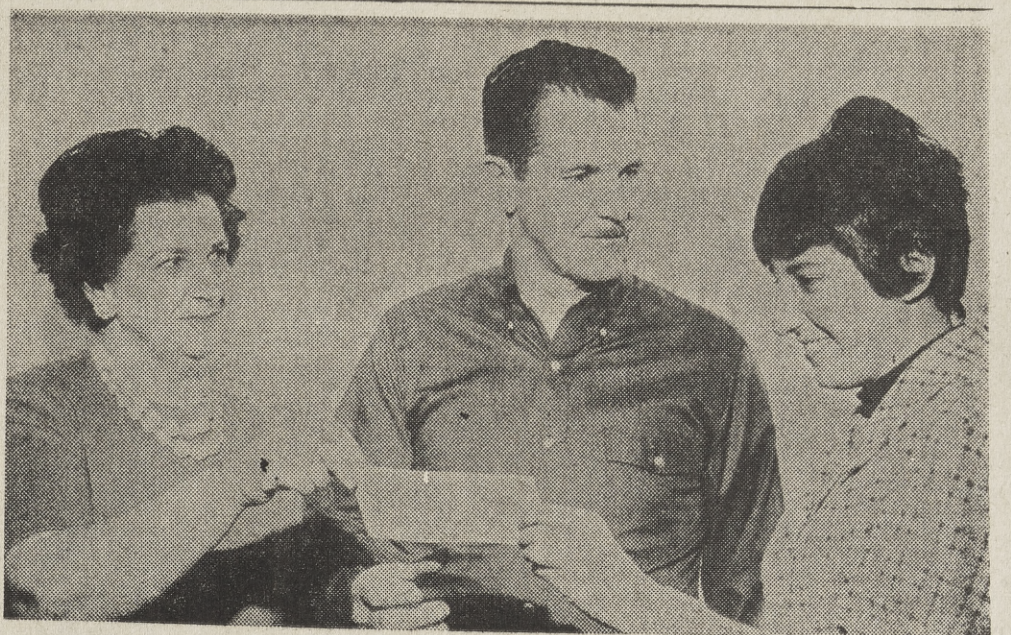

This year's goal is 70,000 toys, some 15,000 more than were collected last year, said campaign directors Capt. Richard D. Mangiarelli, USMCR, and Gunnery Sgt. Don Gibbons, USMC.

The drive began Dec. 2 and will end Dec. 21, allowing time for distribution to needy families by the Salvation Army. Bicycles and other large toys in need of repair are sent to the Viejas Honor Camp.

Collection points have been established throughout the county at San Diego city fire stations, McDonald's Drive-In Restaurants and International House of Pancakes Restaurants.

Also boosting the drive have been the San Diego 200th Anniversary Corp. and San Diego Rockets of the National Basketball Association.

Be a careful, cautious driver—don't break the family circle.

Navy Recipes Provide Tasty (Meat Loaf) Dish

A recent survey was conducted at Galley Five under the watchful eye of Cdr. Robert E. Lent, supply officer, which could only be called "Operation Meat Loaf."

This study was an effort to improve the quality and taste of meat loaf being served in the three galleys of the Naval Training Center.

Four basic meat loaf recipes were used and were designated as "A," "B," "C" and "D," and coded with colored toothpicks.

Twenty-five invited guests from Service School Command, Naval Administrative Command, Commissaryman "A" and "B" schools, and the Navy Subsistence Office field food service team joined galley officers and chief petty officers in a taste test to vote for their choice.

Product "A" was mixed from a commercial dehydrated meat loaf mix, meat loaf "B" was also a commercial dehydrated mix but fresh eggs were added; meat loaf "C" was made from the standard Navy recipe card, while meat loaf "D" was a professional chef's recipe.

The winner? Meat loaf "C" of course.

Which goes to prove again that the Navy recipes do provide tasty dishes.

Wilson Goes To Session On Oceanography

Assemblyman Pete Wilson this week attended a three-day conference on Ocean Mining Law and multiple uses of the ocean sponsored by the National Security Association and the State of Oregon.

Representatives of 22 coastal states were invited to participate in the conference in Portland. Wilson was one of four delegates appointed by Gov. Reagan to represent the State of California.

Wilson was author of legislation to encourage the development of private ocean industry in the last session of the legislature. Wilson reported from Portland that the "emphasis of this meeting was to encourage expanding commercial uses of the ocean by private industry, at the same time safeguarding the public's interest in our state owned natural resources and important uses of the ocean, such as recreation."

Women Will Aid 'Brothers'

Two La Jolla women will be active this year in the Big Brothers Auxiliary annual pinata sale.

Mrs. William Cary, 5833 Soledad Rd., and Mrs. Francis Marshall, 5830 Soledad Rd., will be taking part in the sale at Grossmont Center tomorrow through Dec. 24. They will also be at Mission Valley Center Friday and Saturday.

The Big Brother movement was started 64 years ago in New York City and came to the San Diego area in 1961. Through the program, mature, responsible men serve as special friends to boys whose fathers are dead or the homes are broken, according to Fred Weitzen, Jr., president of the Board of Directors of Big Brothers.

Eighty-five San Diego men are presently serving as Big Brothers to 91 fatherless boys. Several of the local men are serving brothers.

Since coming to San Diego more than 1,000 boys have been helped by the program, either through a Big Brother, counseling by a professional caseworker or referral to an agency that could best help the boy. Big Brothers recently moved from its former office on E Street to 861 Sixth St.

Two caseworkers are now employed by the agency with a third expected the first of the year, said Weitzen. Proceeds from the sale will be used to purchase needed carpeting, drapes, and furniture in the new office.

A re-creation of the Nativity will be the final scene in the program.

A series designed to provide a basis for understanding and action in the area of racial concerns will be offered by St. Mark's Methodist Church on Sunday evenings starting in January.

The series, known as "Design for Understanding," consists of seven separate lectures and discussions on prejudice towards minority groups.

Citizen's Interracial Committee has put together the programs and St. Mark's Church is sponsoring the program in Clairemont.

Design for Understanding was recently programmed in Linda Vista where it drew crowds of over 100 people.

St. Mark's has offered a five-week program this fall in preparation for the Design. The fall series consisted of panel discussions on what is being done in the community in the area of racial prejudice.

The Design will cost single individuals $10 for the series and couples $15.

YMCA Offers Camping For The Holidays

The problem of what to do with children over the Christmas holiday is being solved for North Shores mothers by the Northwest YMCA on Cliffside Road.

A vacation day camp for boys and girls between the ages of six and 10 years will run for eight days through the most crucial parts of the Yuletide and New Year's vacation. The time is 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. starting the Monday before Christmas (Dec. 23) and ending the Friday after New Year's, Jan. 3.

The specific days are Dec. 23, 24, 26, 27, 30 and 31 and Jan. 2 and 3. Children from the entire area including La Jolla, Pacific Beach, Clairemont and University City will be provided with free bus pickup to the 'Y' at 8355 Cliffside off La Jolla Scenic Drive.

Don Shaw, YMCA director, said the program will offer fun, adventure, excitement and old friends going new places.

The program includes swimming, crafts roller skating, games, campfires, cook-outs, games, physical fitness, movies, tour of Christmas decorated homes and other trips. Fee for 'Y' members is $25 and fee for non-members is $30. This includes leadership, insurance, all materials, admissions, transportation and free bus pick-up.

Those wishing to enter the special vacation program, always one of the most popular events for young people at the 'Y', need only call 453-3483 or drop by the building and pick up an application form.

The 'Y' will require the name and address of the applicant as well as age and the name of the nearest public school and the grade level of the youngsters. Parents should also include mention of any health problems or restrictions of activity.

Shaw said parents should sign up soon.

Salvation Army Schedules 'Adopt A Family'

A unique "Adopt A Family" program is underway for Christmas. It is but a part of the over-all program of the Salvation Army whose major activities of the year take place in the Christmas season.

In this unusual program, many individuals and families, as well as a large number of groups and organizations contact the Salvation Army and ask for an "adoptive family" that is needy. Some of the groups participating this year include Elks Lodge, a Soroptimist Club, Scout and Cub troops, Sororities and Fraternities, and many individual Navy ships and employee groups.

Information is given the donor regarding the needs of those selected and the number of sexes of children in the home. Only first names are given and the recipient remains anonymous as does the donor. Specific sizes for clothing are provided.

The donor group or individual then assembles the gifts he wishes to make to "his" adoptive family. Such gifts usually include food, cash, personal gifts such as clothing, gift certificates and toys. Quite often, the gifts include a Christmas tree and decorations, or a Christmas Turkey.

Many needy families remain on the rolls as "adoptive families" and any person or individual wishing to share their good fortune with the more unfortunate in this fashion is urged to contact the Salvation Army's "Adopt A Family" office at 730 F St. in San Diego or call that office at 234-6553.

Andy's Open Nets Galaxy Of Top Stars

Andy Williams and a full field of the nation's best touring professionals, will be in this golfing mecca Jan. 28-Feb. 2 for another $165,000 show.

Of course the "show" is the second annual Andy Williams San Diego Open at Torrey Pines Golf Course.

"Andy's Swingers" are wasting no time letting tournament officials know they will be here in force for the two-day Pro-Amateur that precedes the open.

The "Swingers" are, of course, Andy's celebrity friends who play here at his invitation in the 104-four-some Pro-Am, Jan. 28-29, at both Torrey Pines and Stardust C. C.

Already entered are Dennis James, Dale Robertson, Jack Ging, Robert Wilkie, Duke Snider, Jack Kelly, Ricky Nelson, Glenn Campbell, Ernie Ford, Don Adams, Bill Gargan, Steve Forrest, Bobby Troup, Richard Long, Claude Akins, Andy's brother Don, and Fred MacMurray.

About 30 entertainment stars in all will play in the up-coming Pro-Am, along with 280 other amateurs and 104 touring pros.

The big Pro-Am field will be split, with half playing Torrey and half playing Stardust opening day. They will switch courses for the second day's competition.

Pros will shoot for $15,000 in cash in the Pro-Am, before they get down to the more serious business of going after the $150,000 purse in the four-day, 72-hole Open at Torrey Pines, Jan. 30-Feb. 2.

More than 175 amateurs are signed up, at $200 entry fee, for the Pro-Am. They also pay $100 for a Century Club membership.

Chiefs, Bucs Both Bow In Friday Games

Proceedings at Clairemont got pretty exciting Friday as fans saw Vista and Clairemont battle an entire game only to see the contest decided on a free throw. The lead changed hands six times in the last period alone as Vista's cagers eventually escaped victorious, 55-54 on the losers' court.

The Chiefs lost a chance to send the game into overtime when John Bayles missed one of two free throws after the clock had run out. It was Larry McDaniel's eight footer with five seconds left that gave the game to Vista. McDaniel and Clairemont's Tom Thursty each netted 16 points to take the game scoring honors.

Mission Bay ran into trouble against a scrappy little team from the desert. Brawley took advantage of Bucs missed lay-ups to keep themselves well out in front throughout the course of the game.

The Bucs came within three late in the third quarter but those lay-ups proved fatal as Brawley finished on top, 58-51. Fred Pagani hit 21 for the losers to take game scoring honors.

Gull Defenses Shored By New Player In Fold

The San Diego Gulls have acquired the services of defenseman Brian Gibbons from the Detroit Red Wings organization.

Gibbons, 21, has been playing this season at Fort Worth of the Central Hockey League. This is his first season as a professional. He had no goals and five assists in 15 games with Fort Worth this season.

Gibbons is 6-3 and weighs 190 pounds. He was born July 7, 1947 in St. John's Newfoundland. He played last season for the Hamilton Red Wings of the Ontario Hockey Association, scoring five goals and assisting on 23 others.

The Gulls started the season with six defensesmen, but are now down to five with the shoulder separation suffered by Dennis Huculak.

"Due to our heavy schedule this month, it is a precautionary measure," said Gulls' General Manager Coach Max McNab. "I will have a talk with him and see then exactly when he will get into action. There is no question that he will be used on the trip this weekend."

DEFENDING CHAMPIONS

Madison Mat Men Host City Tourney

Defending Champion Madison will host the 8th annual San Diego City Prep Wrestling Holiday Season Tournament on Saturday, the first day of city schools Christmas vacation. The tournament kicks off at 10 a.m. in Warhawk Gym, finals are expected to be completed by 7 p.m.

Two boys will compete in each of 12 weight divisions from each city high school. That means 168 boys will compete in 84 first round matches. The tournament is self-supporting and a charge of $1 for adults and 50 cents for students will be collected at the door. Tickets are good throughout the day.

Madison is expected to make a strong showing with three top prep wrestlers scheduled for action.

Jim Steiger, 16, is expected to take the 103 pound class. Steiger, a Madison junior, won the Chula Vista Tournament earlier this season. He had four pins in four matches.

Mike Trott, 17, is a two letter man in the mat sport and an All Western League center in football. He competes in the 180 pound class.

Richard Boyle, 17, won the Western League 95 pound title last year and has moved up to the 112 pound class. He, like Trott, has lettered twice in wrestling. Both are seniors.

Mission Bay High School is expected to field a strong club as are University and Point Loma. Competition starts at 95 pounds and works through the 12 classes to a top of 215. Sophomores (10 graders) generally fill the lighter divisions and any school could spring a surprise or two and probably will. Western League wrestling gets underway following the Christmas vacation.

Mission Beach Plunge Opened

MVP HONORS TO HADL—John Hadl, left, was honored Thursday as the Charger's "Most Valuable Player." The award was presented by sportscaster Lyle Bond at the Charger Backers annual team honoring luncheon. "I'm the most valuable player, then we're really in trouble," said Hadl on being named. Nobody agreed with the handsome quarterback. Voting on the team's MVP award is done by Charger players.

Chargers To Play Spoiler

By JOHN E. WIRGES
Sentinel Sports Editor

The San Diego Chargers, taking the role of "spoiler," meet the Oakland Raiders in the city's beautiful Mission Valley Stadium this afternoon. Oakland needs a win to tie in the Western Division and force a playoff with Kansas City, which meets "so-so" Denver today. The Chargers need a win to regain their identity as a football power and a team to be reckoned with come next year.

Today's contest is the second meeting between the teams this season. The Chargers snapped Oakland's 14 game, two year winning streak, with a 23-14 pounding in their first meeting and, in addition a chance at league honors Super Bowl and all that, the Raiders want revenge.

"We'll be ready," said the Raiders' Lee Grosscup at the Charger Backers awards luncheon on Thursday. "We're back to being healthy and we'll be ready for a tough game."

The Raiders (11-2) have had problems of late but whenever things get a little too warm ancient George Blanda boots them out of trouble. Blanda has 107 points on the season. It's the fourth time in his career, a trail that dates back to the flying wedge he's gone over 100 tallies.

The Chargers will counter with what was, and still is, one of the most powerful attacks in pro football. A solid running game with exceptional passing as provided by Dickie Post, John Hadl, Lance Alworth, Garry Garrison, and company. If football is a game of inches as many self-styled experts seem to think, a bit more determination might swing the yardstick in the Chargers direction. Four of Hadl's interceptions last Sunday were tipped at or near the line of scrimmage. Take those away and it's a different ball game. Harder hitting has been promised for today and it might be enough to swing an inch or two to the Gillmans. Kickoff is set for 1 o'clock and shortly after that, we'll know.

Aztecs To Play, Coach For West

Coach Don Coryell departed Friday for San Francisco where he will be an assistant coach for the West in the 48th Annual East and West Shrine football classic on Dec. 28. Aztec Fred Dryer a little All-American will report to the West's players camp on Dec. 18. Dryer has also been selected to play in the Hula Bowl on January 4 in Honolulu.

PIQUERO EXPEDITION

Scripps Ship Leaves
On 33,500 Mile Trip

A nine-month biological, geophysical and physical scientific exploration in the eastern Pacific Ocean began Monday when Scripps Institution of Oceanography's research vessel, Thomas Washington, steamed out of San Diego Bay for her first port of call, Antofagasta, Chile.

The 33,500-mile Piquero Expedition, as it has been designated, will concentrate its efforts in the deep ocean off the west coast of South America, but will also work on the continental shelf, Dr. Bruce A. Taft, assistant professor of oceanography and cruise coordinator, said.

Piquero is the common name in Peru for the Peruvian Booby, the dominant bird of the Peru (Humboldt) Current. The Piquero's white head, neck and breast and speckled back are distinctive.

In all, some 130 scientists from the United States, Chile, Peru, France and the United Kingdom — including 16 Scripps graduate students — will conduct research during Piquero's nine legs.

Piquero is sponsored by contracts from the Office of Naval Research and the Atomic Energy Commission and by grants from the National Science Foundation.

To provide the scientists with at-sea computational ability in data reduction and analysis, Scripps recently acquired an IBM 1800 computer for use aboard the Washington.

A wide variety of investigations will be conducted during the cruise. These include an analysis of seawater samples for concentration of noble gases, such as xenon and helium, near the East Pacific Rise, a north-south underwater ridge on the eastern side of the Pacific; a major study of the physical oceanography of the Chile Current, including direct measurements of currents in the Drake Passage, between Cape Horn, Chile, and the Palmer Peninsula of Antarctica.

Also, an exploration of the relations among plankton, nutrient distribution, and currents in the region west of Peru; a study of possible sea floor spreading in the area between the East Pacific Rise and the South American continent; an intensive study of animal and plant growth in upwelling water of Callao, Peru.

Also, in the region between the Galapagos Islands and the mainland, studies of the characteristics of the sharp boundary between the cold and salty waters of the Peru Current and the warm and relatively fresh waters to the north; and a study of the circulation near the equator east and west of the Galapagos Islands. This latter study will concentrate on determining the barrier effect of the Galapagos Islands on the flow of the subsurface Equatorial Undercurrent.

Scientific leaders of each leg of Piquero and the dates and locations of port calls include:

Leg I, Dec. 9-Jan. 1, 1969, San Diego to Antofagasta, Chile—Dr. Rudolph H. Bieri, specialist in physics; Leg II, Jan. 2-Jan. 7, Antofagasta to Valparaiso — Miss Tanya Atwater, graduate student in marine geophysics; Leg III, Jan. 11-Feb. 20, Valparaiso to Valparaiso—Joseph L. Reid, research oceanographer;

Also, Legs IV and V, Feb. 24-Mar. 10, Valparaiso to Callao, Peru, and Mar. 13-April 14, Callao to Callao—Dr. Edward M. Brinton, associate research biologist; Leg VI, April 18-May 19, Callao to Callao — Victor Vacquier, professor of geophysics;

Also, Leg VII, May 23-June 20, Callao to Callao — Dr. John D. H. Strickland, research oceanographer; Leg VIII, June 24-Aug. 1, Callao to Balboa, C. Z., and Balboa to Talara, Peru — Dr. Warren S. Wooster, professor of oceanography; and Leg IX, Aug. 4-Sept. 8, Talara to San Diego — Dr. Bruce A. Taft, assistant professor of oceanography.

Ask The Principal

It seems that so much attention is given to the average child that students who do not fit this average pattern are neglected. What is being done for the exceptional child?

Teachers have long known that there is no "average child," since each one is unique. Within our "regular" class programs small groups and individual instruction is planned.

Teachers need a variety of materials and a class size which allows for this kind of instruction. The range of ability and achievement in a given grade will vary a great deal.

Beyond these provisions, special programs have been established for children who have certain talents or handicaps which present specific needs.

Briefly, here are some of the programs provided for exceptional children in the San Diego City Schools:

Trainable Mentally Retarded — For students who will always need some sort of sheltered occupational program.

Educable Mentally Retarded — For students who can learn the basic skills at a level which will allow them to get along successfully in society with some selection of occupation.

Gifted Cluster Classes — The placing of identified gifted students in small groups within regular classes in order to concentrate the use of material and personnel resources.

Gifted Educationally Handicapped — For small groups of children who are very capable yet find it difficult to work effectively in the regular class.

Orthopedically Handicapped Classes — For children with orthopedic handicaps which require special facility and special psychotherapy services.

Deaf and Hard of Hearing — For students who need to spend all or part of the day in rooms with special equipment and with teachers who have special background.

Visually Handicapped — The same as for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Program except the handicap is visual.

Special Art and Music Programs for Talented Students — Students are taken out of the classrooms and provided special instruction, often on Saturdays.

Educationally Handicapped Classes — For small groups of students who may work in a self-contained classroom or be taken out for small group instruction in a more remedial situation.

Reading Re-Teaching — For small groups of children who are taken out of primary classes in order that certain reading skills can be re-taught.

Children may be identified for these programs in the regular neighborhood elementary school or an application may be made directly to our city schools Exceptional Child Services Department. In any event, parents who have questions on these programs should feel free to talk about them with their local elementary principal.

First World Championship For Limited Hydros Due During 200th

The first World Championship for Limited Inboard Hydroplanes and Runabouts ever held in the world will be part of San Diego's 200th Anniversary Celebration, it has been announced.

The event, scheduled Sept. 17 to Sept. 21, will be held on the Mission Bay course, and is to be the biggest American Power Boat Association sanctioned regatta ever organized.

Bob Withrow, chairman of the event for the 200th Anniversary, said "the race is sponsored by the San Diego 200th Anniversary, Inc., and will be conducted under the auspices of the Pacific Power Boat Club of San Diego and the Southern California Speedboat Club."

"A unique feature of this regatta will be the inclusion of four classes of European Weight Class boats," Withrow said.

European Weight Class Boats are restricted only to total weight in their respective classes. Boats may be powered by any kind of motor, using gas, steam, or petrol in any form. Turbines, electric motors and nuclear powered engines may be used.

The 200th Anniversary Limited Hydroplane races are officially sanctioned by the American Powerboat Association.

Sanction for the 200th Anniversary Limited Hydroplane races was officially approved at the Nov. 20 meeting of the American Powerboat Association.

A request has been submitted for sanction from the Union of International Motorboating at the council in Ghent, Belgium this month.

"We anticipate no objection to our request to U.I.M. for this Inboard event," Withrow said. "The size and importance of the races, plus the magnificent course in Mission Bay, will practically guarantee official U.I.M. sanction."

"We have been attempting to organize a true International Inboard race for years," Withrow added, "and we are realizing our goal during the 200th. A tremendous amount of research and pre-planning has already been done, and we are assured a world's first in this race class for 1969."

Three heats per race will be run in 12 A.P.B.A. classes, according to U.I.M. racing rules. The winner is declared on elapsed time.

Over 200 of the fastest boats in the world are expected to enter, including entries from Switzerland, Italy, Germany, New Zealand, England, France, Japan, Canada, and top U. S. boats.

Reserves Unit Has Opening

San Diego's "Green Beret" Special Forces Detachment of the Army Reserves announces openings for additional personnel. This has come about through the addition of two new "A" Teams to the existing detachment.

The organizational slots to be filled include communications, weapons, medical, engineering, administration and military intelligence and operations. Although persons with prior military service in these skills are desired, individuals who meet other qualifications will be considered for training in unfilled organizational slots.

All persons joining the detachment must volunteer to participate in all phases of Special Forces training which include scuba diving, parachute jumping as well as basic military skills.

Those interested may contact the commanding officer, Captain Arthur R. Armstrong at 278-0228 or Donald Peavey at 283-5571.

Financial Report

By TOM MARTIN

On Nov. 26, Marinduque Mining & Industrial Corp. sold $15 million Convertible Subordinated Debentures due Dec. 1, 1988. The bonds, to be issued in fully registered form, will be convertible at a single price to maturity. Purchasers of the Debentures will be exempt from U. S. Interest Equalization Tax. Under existing laws, unless at least 60% of capital stock is owned by Philippine citizens after July 3, 1974, all mining leases will be subject to cancellation. At present, some 77% of this company's stock is owned by Philippine citizens. Proceeds will be used primarily in connection with the possible development of a mine and construction of a refinery facility for the recovery of nickel and cobalt on a Government-owned mineral reservation.

A prolonged strike involving copper producers in the U. S. contributed to a substantial rise in world copper prices late in the third quarter of 1967. World copper prices subsequently declined after settlement of the strike in March and April this year. This exemplifies the volatility of sales and profits, although the longer term record of this company is commendable. Net income in 1967 compared to the previous year was adversely affected by the decline in world copper prices in the first half, together with increased costs of production.

Creditable results were posted for the first nine months this year, with revenues and earnings increasing 36% and 61%, respectively, reflecting unusually high world copper prices in the first quarter. In view of the nature of this situation the common stock, 18 5/8, appraises fairly earnings per share of $2.39 for the 12 months ended September 30, 1968. Potential stock dilution is 15%.

Prospects for the debentures are importantly affected by future prices of overseas copper. Also significant is the decision to be made before the latter part of 1969 of whether to go into commercial production with the nickel and cobalt concession.

Marinduque is the second largest mining company in the Philippines. It is primarily engaged in the mining and processing of copper ore and concentrates are exported to Mitsui Mining & Smelting Co. which are negotiated annually, and extend to Dec. 31, 1972. Standard and Poor's will not rate these debentures.

Testing Firm Expands Office With New Lab

John R. Bell, president of Southern California Testing Laboratory, Inc., has announced the expansion of its present facilities, located at 6280 Riverdale St.

The new addition will provide 1,600 square feet of laboratory and office space, which will give the company a total of 10,600 square feet of facilities.

Bell said Southern California Testing Laboratory, Inc., specializes in the fields of soils and foundation engineering, physical material testing, and registered deputy inspection and contributed the necessity of the addition as being due to the vast growth the company has had in the past five years.

So-Cal Testing is presently providing its services for such projects as the San Diego-Coronado Bay Bridge, Town and Country High Rise and Convention Center, Holiday Inns of San Diego and La Jolla, J. W. Robinsons Department Store, Buffums and Mall Shops of Fashion Valley, IBM Building in Mission Valley, Fed Mart Shopping Center, Sears and Roebuck in El Cajon and Hilton Inns.

Started in May of 1964 with a staff of five, So-Cal Testing now provides facilities and services in San Diego, Palm Springs, Mexico and South America with a staff of 50 engineers, geologists, technicians, inspectors and specialists.

PET PATTER

Pets Who Like Sports —
By MERZE M. SEEBURGER
*Men like sports, and so do we;

So many things to do and be.
Just like people, oh what fun!
And really, we've just begun!

Some dogs, like boys and grown-up men, are fond of sport.

Of course, there are career dogs, like greyhounds and whippets, who are trained to race, and hunting dogs who help their masters locate and retrieve game, but today I am talking about the many dogs who just naturally inherit a love of sport.

Even the family dog likes to play ball, running after balls and sticks to retrieve them for you until your energy runs low. But some dogs love unusual sports and become quite expert at them.

Many dogs like to swim and some people even see that their dogs have swimming lessons in the summer. Maybe the family will enjoy swimming together in the surf if you are near a beach.

A Bay City, Michigan, dog likes the water so well he spends a lot of time leaping back and forth through the lawn sprinkler. Fine for summer, but in zero weather, no good. Maybe he teases for a turn in the family shower.

A lot of dogs have taken up surfing and are very expert at riding the waves, or riding a surf board behind the power boat on a lake or river. Many Hawaiian dogs are wonderful surfers, and California dogs who spend much time with families at the beach develop great skill in just two or three weeks. In cold regions many dogs have acquired a fondness for skate board riding.

Here's something few dogs can do. A Dalmatian and his little pal, Corky, learned log rolling, and competed in a Chicago Sportsman's Show. They were champion log rolls, and some human rivals were jealous of their skill.

Riding horseback is not the usual recreation for a canine pet, but Actress Susannah York often takes her King Charles Spaniel for a canter with her in the park.

Sport loving dogs better not turn hippie if they live in England. A conservative judge there fined a man for letting his dog go several years with untrimmed hair. Even a Sheep Dog should not let himself get too shaggy.

Climbing trees is a specialty of the cat family, but some dogs like to climb, too. Some like to leap, to climb fences and ladders, and even trees. A Colorado German Shepherd, who likes to climb fences, has a wheel of a good time on playground equipment.

Some dogs develop hobbies like collecting the neighborhood newspapers or rubbers left outside the kitchen doors or on the porches. The neighbors don't appreciate this. Of course a time honored sport of canine pets is chasing cats.

Two sports that should be firmly discouraged are chasing cars and biting the mailman. Both are dangerous. If you want to get your mail promptly don't let your dog snarl at the post man. And Rover will be in trouble if he disputes the right of way with a speeding car.

Cats are not so fond of sports, but they have hobbies too. I'll tell you about some of them another time. Happy Holidays to you and your pets.

Rental Owners Elect Officers At Next Meeting

The Apartment and Rental Owners Association will hold its December meeting on Thursday in the cafeteria at the First National Building. A buffet dinner will be served at 6:30.

The speaker will be Marvin A. E'Golf, a Certified Public Accountant and AROA treasurer. A graduate of San Diego State College and formerly associated with a national accounting firm, E'Golf now heads his own firm. His subject will be "Income Taxes? What Else Is New?" He will stress year-end tax planning and suggest improved or alternative accounting and record keeping procedures for owners of rental properties.

Members will vote for AROA's 1969 officers at this meeting.

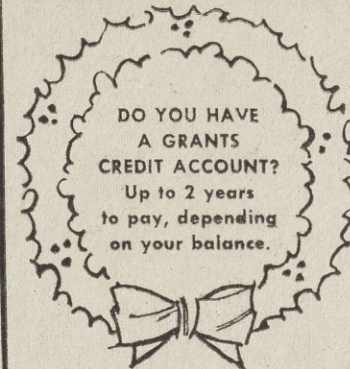

A pre-dinner session on electronic record keeping will be presented by Fielder Lutes and Ken Scott.

The meeting is open to the public, but by reservation only. The AROA office will Tuesday at 239-9211.

Dinner, a gift exchange and a "Christmas Cheer Drawing" were held according to Mrs. Andrew Gangitano of Point Loma.

Co-chairmen were Mmes. Carlton Riley and Milton Nesbitt.

The chapter collected food for a needy Cystic Fibrosis family for Thanksgiving and will do so again for Christmas.

Santa Needs Parent Help

Parents can be Santa's helpers this Christmas.

Santa Claus knows a toy suitable for a 10 year old boy may be potentially dangerous for a four year old child.

Thus, on Christmas Eve he tries to deliver toys accordingly.

Dr. Albert H. Domm, child safety spokesman for the western home office of Prudential Insurance Company, suggests parents help Santa in delivering safe Christmas toys by keeping in mind the following shopper's checklist.

First, does the toy have chemicals that may explode or poison? Next, is it flammable? Third, note if the toy is labeled "Antitoxic."

Fourth, check if the toy uses electricity batteries or flame which may shock, ignite or injure. Next, does the toy have sharp or jagged edges that could cut or injure?

Sixth, does the toy have removable parts that might be swallowed and cause strangulation? Next, note if the toy is too heavy for a child to lift without injuring himself.

And finally, can the toy be used safely without adult supervision?

Symphony Appoints PL Woman

Arthur S. Johnson, president of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra Association, and Mrs. John McBride Thornton, of Point Loma, president of the Women's Committee, appointed Mrs. Harold J. Cokely of Point as chairman of the San Diego Symphony Civic Luncheon to be held Jan. 31 at the International Room of the El Cortez Hotel.

Mrs. Cokely is from Memphis, Tennessee, but has not lived there for a number of years as Navy orders of her husband have taken them to many lands and places.

She is the wife of Rear Admiral Harold J. Cokely, Medical Corps, US Navy, ret.

Admiral Cokely was in command of Balboa Naval Hospital for four years prior to his three year tour of Oakland Naval Hospital, from which he retired a year ago.

They have one daughter, who is married to Comdr. Michael A. Quarararo, USN, who recently took command of the USS San Marcos, with home port of Little Creek, Virginia. They have three children, Patti, Michael and Philip.

Mrs. Cokely has been busy redecorating and landscaping the home they bought in Point Loma. Although not a musician, she is a great lover of music and the arts. She gave much of her time to working for the Symphony during their tour of duty here and is continuing her interest in a whole hearted manner for the San Diego Symphony.

She is also a member of the Fine Arts Society, Opera Guild, Globe Guilders, Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge and active in the Wives of Navy Doctors Club as third vice-president.

Mrs. Cokely has taken a Relief Work, a 1,000 hour pin neatly tucked in her scrap book. Mrs. Robert W. Leeman will serve as Mrs. Cokely's co-chairman.

Town Talk

By MARY FISHEL

SHOPPING FOR . . . a Gelegenheitskauf? Bet you are especially at this time of the year, because in German that means "a bargain" . . . but it would be a long way to travel and a little hard to obtain permission to get on the USAF Base at Tempelhof, Berlin, Germany. If you could go however, the Air Force Officers Wives and NCO Wives at Tempelhof have gone together to operate one of the most unique shops in the world, since their specialty is clocks. They have many varieties from the Grandfather ones to the Berlin free-swingers and Vienna regulated, some more than 100 years old. Mrs. Daniel Rigoli (nee Jill Weinberger), wife of Capt. Rigoli stationed there with the Air Force, is chairman of the shop. She declared her only trouble was "wanting to buy too many clocks" which come in to be sold on consignment. Jill did purchase two . . . a cuckoo clock made in 1850 and a wall clock made in the late 1800s. She saw another one she wanted, but before she could call her husband, another couple had come into the shop and bought it!

The Rigolis have two youngsters, Ricky, 4½ and Danica Jill, 1½ years old. Their grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Weinberger and Mrs. Henry Rigoli, all of La Jolla.

Dan and Jill had both traveled in Europe before he received orders to report to Tempelhof Central Airport, but they have found Berlin a fascinating place to live. Tempelhof is considered one of the largest buildings in the world and the Airport complex houses the German Police Headquarters, civilian airport and US Military Base.

The tunnels underneath Tempelhof were quite famous in World War II, when it was rumored Hitler had sealed them off. They were shelled in the war, but when the Americans entered the city they wanted to save many of the buildings including Tempelhof.

The Rigolis have found the Germans very friendly and they still prize a Kennedy half dollar above anything you give them!

The Rigolis home (110 miles inside the Iron Curtain) is in the Army American Housing area where they have a beautiful view of a "duck pond" . . . looks more like a lake from their apartment window. The mayor has the right to name the streets so that with every change of mayors and extension of streets, one street may change names four or five times until you arrive at the end.

Dan and Jill consider Berlin one of the foremost cities in the world culturally and every other way. They have one of the largest collections of Rembrandt in one of their museums and excel in shops, where you can buy anything from priceless antiques and wood carvings, to clothes. Approximately one-fifth of the city is parks and forests where you can even hunt wild deer . . . if so inclined.

Jill received one order for a clock from Alaska, so if you want to shop by mail, she can be reached at 20 Luetzelsteiner Weg, Apt. 10, Berlin 33. The clocks are all guaranteed to be in working order and all proceeds from the shop are used for Air Force welfare.

Ricky and Jill are too young to be interested in German clocks . . . but Ricky certainly is interested in German and can speak the language fluently . . . speak? He can sing in German and a couple of pennies for a gum machine will inspire all sorts of songs sung in German by Ricky!

EVER HEARD . . . of "elephant stew"? Well, O. W. Cotton of Point Loma has a recipe for it in a gourmet cook book containing some of his best recipes . . . last week he and his granddaughter, Mrs. Larry Cairncross (Joan Cotton) entertained about 200 guests in his Point Loma home attending the Alpha Phi Alumnae Christmas cocktail, buffet party.

No they didn't serve "elephant stew" but many other goodies on the heated patio outside, where the view was tremendous and also inside the Cotton home.

Mrs. Frank V. Arrington (Jeannie Lomac) and Mrs. Michael Bruce (Eddie Clinkey) were the Alpha Phi chairmen.

There were many door prizes and all party proceeds will go to benefit Cardiac Aid, Children's Hospital and the Alpha Phi Chapter at San Diego State.

A CONTRADICTION? . . . American Association of University Women has initiated ed a "Coretta Scott King Fund" to contribute to the education of young women of particular concern to Mrs. King.

This action was taken in Washington, according to "The Sphere," a publication of AAUW, four days after Mrs. King stood on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial in June where her husband had stood on the same steps five years earlier to speak of his "dream of America."

Now this Fund with other AAUW Fellowship is to further the studies of women "concerned with Afro-American history." According to the Sphere, awards will be made from the Coretta Scott King Fund to women scholars and students pursuing undergraduate or graduate studies or research in the fields of Afro-American history, non-violence and peace.

And to quote "There shall be no restrictions as to race, creed or color, but preference shall be given to qualified Afro-American applicants." What do you call "preference" and why should there be any?

PROUD GRANDPARENTS . . . Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hart of Pacific Beach (well known through real estate and Western Union) are telling all their friends about the exciting arrival of a grandson, Mark Patrick Hammond.

Mark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hammond (Donna Hart) of Kearny Mesa. The new arrival weighed seven pounds and 10½ ounces at Kaiser Foundation Hospital.

He has already attended his first important event in a white velvet robe . . . his christening at St. Brigid's by Father Michael Drennan.

A reception was held in his honor for about 30 guests. Among those attending were his godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ross of Pacific Beach, and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hammond of Kearny Mesa.

The road up is never easy, but it always gives satisfaction.

Members are planning a New Year's Eve party in Hornblend Hall.

LET'S TALK

DRY CLEANING!

Knitted garments of both the hand-knit and machine-knit variety are one of the special favorites of this year's fashions. Knitted garments and fabrics have a greater tendency to change shape than woven ones. This is due largely to the fact that knitted materials can stretch in one direction and at the same time shrink in another. Also, knitted clothes are likely to lose their shape during wear. For this reason they require frequent cleaning and blocking to restore them to their original shape and dimensions. This is true of fabrics and garments knitted of wool, cotton, rayon, nylon and combinations of yarns. With knitted materials, as with all fabrics, we must analyze the yarn fibers to determine just which cleaning compound to use. Blocking and finishing of knitted clothes takes special skill, too. You can trust your knitted garments to us, and know that they are in capable, responsible hands... that they will be painstakingly handled during cleaning, blocking and finishing... and returned to you impeccably clean and new-looking.

Jewel Guild Holds Ball

"Le Joyeux Soiree II" was held from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Anderson by the La Jolla Jewel Guild.

Mrs. W. Arnet Speer, decorations chairman, used Scandinavian Christmas decorations in accord with the contemporary scheme of the Anderson home.

She used fresh greens, pine cones, Delia Robia fruit and candles to achieve the desired effect. The main entrance was framed by greenery woven into a light-dotted swag.

A centerpiece with decorative fruit was featured on the buffet table covered in olive green.

Patio tables were decorated with gold cloths and centerpieces of green and candles. Metal animal forms, traditionally Scandinavian, were cut from foil.

Suspended from the fire place was a papier mache angel with a halo of tiny lights will be suspended above the fireplace.

Party chairman is Mrs. Donald C. Okey.

A boutique of handmade gift items was on sale.

PARTY GOERS—Among those attending the annual La Jolla Woman's Club Christmas luncheon Monday were Mmes. John C. Rhodes, Theodore Alexander and Walter S. Grehner, all of La Jolla.

To Your Health

Christmas for twelve days? Why not—as the folksong suggests—lengthen the season of giving and joy?

The incredibly popular Yuletide song, of course, celebrates long-ago customs—when the great midwinter festival really did last for twelve days. The song honors the days from Christmas to Epiphany—Jan. 6—the day the Three Wise Kings, laden with precious gifts, came from the East to visit the Child.

Partridges and pear trees are not very common Christmas gifts these days—if indeed they ever were. But giving and gifts are still cherished holiday customs. Christmas Seals are one of those customs.

And the design of this year's Christmas Seal is a plump partridge in a tree of golden pears, the gift—in the folksong—for the first day of Christmas.

Using Christmas Seals lengthens the holiday spirit of giving—far beyond twelve days. It lengthens those days into a relentless year-round struggle to combat emphysema, tuberculosis, and air pollution.

The year-round program of your Tuberculosis and Health Association of San Diego County helps make life livable for a great many people with respiratory problems.

Partridges and pear trees are a symbol of generosity, good will, and joy. That is why they are this year's Christmas Seal.

Use Christmas Seals. It's a matter of life and breath. (This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by the Tuberculosis and Health Association of San Diego County—your Christmas Seal agency.)

Musical Yule Planned At Collier School

Three Christmas programs arranged by the choral and instrumental music departments will be presented at Collier Junior High School next week.

Programs for students will be staged in the auditorium Dec. 18 and 19. At 7:30 p.m. Dec. 19 there will be a presentation for parents.

The program will include "The Story Often Told, But Still Forever New," "Christmas Is a Many Splendored Thing" and an adaptation of Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol."

The future of any nation is assured only as long as its citizens have faith in it.

British Cellist Du Pre Performs For Next Pair Of Symphony Concerts

Brilliant British cellist Jacqueline Du Pre will join the San Diego Symphony Orchestra Thursday and Friday as a guest soloist.

The two 8:30 p.m. concerts in Civic Theatre will be conducted by Zoltan Rozsnyai, music director and conductor of the local orchestra.

The pair of concerts, fourth in a series of 12 scheduled in the 1968-69 winter season, will feature the blonde Miss Du Pre in Elgar's Cello Concerto. Other concert selections will include Corelli's Concerto Grosso (Christmas Concerto), Vaughan Williams' English Folk Song Suite and Ravel's Daphnis and Chloe Suite.

Miss Du Pre, who made her Carnegie Hall debut with the B.B.C. Symphony in the spring of 1966, has become one of the most popular young cello performers today. She is 23.

Once called "Cinderella with an overzealous fiddle," critics and audiences consider her enormously gifted. New York Times critic Harold Schonberg recently wrote, "Everyone in music has been talking about Jacqueline Du Pre. The basic talent is a formidable one. There can be no reservations at all about her personality and her innate sensitivity."

Born in Surrey, Miss Du Pre first heard a cello at the age of five and demanded one. Her first instrument was a three-quarter cello which she used as a child with the guidance of her mother who taught piano at the Royal Academy of Music. Play and study were combined when she was small.

Her mother wrote a new tune each day with a rhyme to go with it as well as a drawing. The girl would find the tunes under her bed in the morning, and each tune encompassed a new technical problem.

At six she went to Herbert Wallen's London Cello School and first appeared in public the following year. At 10 she began to study with William Pleeth (remaining there seven more years) and a year later she won the Suggia Cello Award which gave her tuition and six-months study in Paris with Paul Tortelier.

Miss Du Pre was only 16 when she made her London debut, which was followed one year later with a performance of the Elgar Concerto with the B.B.C. Symphony under Rudolf Schwarz in Royal Festival Hall. Shortly after, she performed at the Royal Albert Hall under Sir Malcolm Sargent and then began extensive concertizing on the Continent.

Last year Miss Du Pre became the bride of Israeli pianist and conductor Daniel Barenboim. The two are currently touring North America presenting solo and joint performances, with orchestras and in recital.

Birth Upswing Predicted For S D County

The San Diego Department of Public Health today predicted an upswing in births in San Diego County for the second straight year.

Dr. J. B. Askew, director of public health, said births in the county during the first 10 months of 1968 were 2.5 percent higher than a year ago. He reported a total of 18,539 birth through the first 10 months of the current year, compared with 18,085 in the first 10 months of 1967. In 1966, a total of only 17,605 births occurred in San Diego County through October.

A nationwide rise in births is expected, Dr. Askew said. He pointed out that Americans born in the baby boom of 1940-57 are becoming old enough to have families of their own.

The largest number of births on record in San Diego County occurred in 1961 when 27,157 babies were born. Births declined steadily during the next five years.

The current upswing in births began last year. A total of 21,822 births occurred in San Diego County in 1967, up 2.9 percent from 21,215 in 1966.

Mayor Appoints Advisory Group For Sciences

Plans several months in the making have culminated in creation of the Mayor's Social Science Advisory ad hoc committee.

A multi-disciplinary body, the committee is composed largely of faculty-members from San Diego's colleges and universities.

Purpose of the committee is to gather, correlate, and evaluate research material in the various social sciences relevant to problems of urban life, and make its findings available to formulators of public policy in city government.

Committee members are: Dr. Lawrence Solomon, a psychologist; Dr. Tore Tjersland of U.S. International University, an economist; Dr. Thomas Gillette of San Diego State University, a political scientist; Dr. Melford Spiro of the University of California at San Diego, an anthropologist.

Dr. Lawrence Fogel, president of Decision Science, Inc., an environmental scientist; is also a member. Three theologians are serving on the committee: Rabbi Joel Goor of Temple Beth Israel, Rev. Richard McKenna of the New Adult Community, and Father Leo Davis of the Cardijn Center. Robert Sessions of the Community Affairs Group is its executive secretary.

NAVY WORKERS HELP—Starting a Christmas gift list to fill the needs of the Sunshine School for physically handicapped are (left to right) Linda McCain, Wesley, Ed, and Jaye Froehlich. Navy Public Works Center employees Linda and Jaye were sent by the other Center employees to get a list of therapeutic needs at the Sunshine School for physically handicapped, where students Wesley and Ed obligingly helped. Each year, Center employees deliver a giant Christmas card and gifts to the school, instead of exchanging gifts and cards with fellow employees. This year, presentation will be at a school Christmas party Friday noon, Dec. 20.
